

The World Lay Languishing

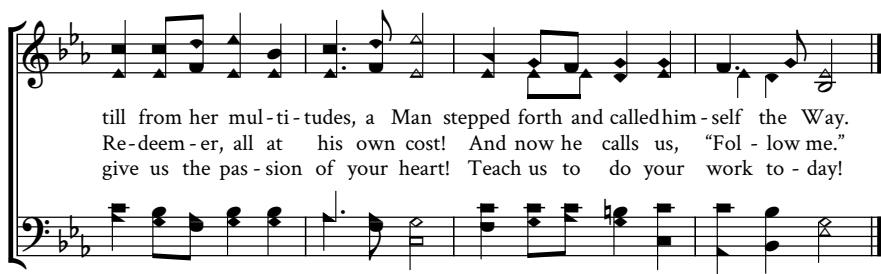

1. The world lay lan-guish - ing in pain, by dark-ness veiled, by care op-pressed,
2. He walked the Way, his ev - ery tread bore hope and heal - ing for man - kind;
3. Ah, Lord, we hear your ring - ing call! And your com - pas - sion moves us still;

and ev - 'ry con - science bore the stain that gives the heart of man no rest.
his liv - ing word re - stored the dead, his touch was sight un - to the blind.
and we would hum - bly give our all to walk your way and do your will.

Life was a fleet - ing, trou - bled span; cre - a - tion sank in - to de - cay;
Al - might - y Sav - ior to the lost, For - giv - er, Heal - er, Friend was he;
Give us your mer - cy to im - part the bread of life, the light of day;

till from her mul - ti - tudes, a Man stepped forth and called him - self the Way.
Re - deem - er, all at his own cost! And now he calls us, "Fol - low me."
give us the pas - sion of your heart! Teach us to do your work to - day!
